WASTE MATERIAL

WASTE AS THE BASIS FOR NEW BUSINESS GIFTS

During the production of consumer goods, waste product is generated. This waste can be thrown away or incinerated, but it can also be reused and processed as a raw material for new products. It seems too good to be true, but that's exactly what happened with these promotional products. Drinking cups can be made from coffee grounds, apple pulp is used to make laptop bags and laptop sleeves, and pens and notebooks can also be made from milk cartons. Explore our new and surprising promotional gifts which contribute to a cleaner world.

COFFEE WASTE

BOOST YOUR BRAND WITH COFFEE GROUNDS

In the Netherlands alone, more than 250 million kilograms of coffee grounds are left over after making coffee. Historically, most of this waste ended up in an incinerator. Now, these coffee grounds are being used as the perfect raw material for making a sustainable alternative to plastic. Coffee grounds are now collected from cafes and restaurants and dried at special locations ready to be used again. Once processed, the coffee grounds form the basis for the production of useful products such as pens, flower pots and sunglasses.

VEGAN APPLE LEATHER

WITH THE LUXURIOUS
LOOK OF REAL LEATHER

Apple leather is a plant-based alternative to leather. It is created during a special process. 1.4 kilos of apples are needed to make 1 litre of apple juice. After the juicing process, the skin, core and pulp remain. This waste product is dried and ground and then made into apple leather with a mix of PU, polyester and cotton. This innovative process is both sustainable and vegan. Apple leather originates from Italy. In the Netherlands, as part of a social apprenticeship company, beautiful products are made from apple leather. The result? Surprisingly stylish promotional gifts with the look & feel of genuine leather.

RECYCLED MATERIAL

A SECOND LIFE FOR USED PRODUCTS

Many of you will be familiar with PET bottles and know that these bottles pollute the oceans and landfill sites. That is why these bottles are collected and recycled (RPET) to serve as raw materials for a huge number of products. It is a great alternative to using virgin plastic. There are many materials that are recycled and given a second life. For example, old clothing and textiles in combination with RPET become the basis of RPET felt. You will find bags made of this material in our collection. Even parts of old white goods are reused to make card holders and the most beautiful hammam towels are woven from recycled cotton. By choosing recycled products you are showing the world that you make conscious choices when it comes to promoting your brand.

RPET

FROM DISCARDED BOTTLE TO PROMOTIONAL GIFT

Is your company searching for new ways to promote a product or service in a sustainable manner? Our RPET collection has you covered. RPET means recycled PET. This material is produced from discarded soft drinks bottles. These bottles are melted down and recycled in to a new material: RPET. This is then used to produce our pens, bags and drinking bottles that can in turn be recycled again. The technology, design and high-quality finish of these sustainable products makes them hard to tell apart from their non-recyclable counterparts. When you choose RPET, you are helping to reduce plastic waste.

RECYCLED COTTON

ENVIRONMENTALLY CONSCIOUS MATERIAL

Environmentally conscious material

New cotton material can now be produced by recycling waste product from the textile industry (pre-consumer) or from discarded consumer textiles (post-consumer). This process often combines different raw materials to create something new. Worn textiles are sorted and stripped of buttons, zips and labels. It is then machine processed until only fibres remain. This is mixed with a small percentage of virgin organic cotton or polyester. After processing, strong yarns are spun from these fibres. The production process is much more environmentally friendly than that of traditional cotton: no agricultural land, no insecticides, less use of water and energy. Choosing products made from this material is a conscious choice

Plastic Bank® is an international organisation with two main goals. These goals concern us all, reducing poverty and reducing plastic waste in the oceans. Plastic Bank® pays people in developing countries to return plastic waste. This plastic is collected from beaches, rivers, riverbanks, landfills and from the shallow parts of the ocean. This helps prevent plastic waste from polluting the oceans. The collected plastic is sorted, cleaned and processed into granules. New products are then made from these granules and given the Social Plastic® label.

ORGANIC COTTON

THE SOFT REFINEMENT OF NATURAL TEXTILES

Cotton is breathable, light and relatively inexpensive. Unlike cotton, organic cotton is grown without fertilizers and the use of synthetic pesticides. In addition, much less water is used for cultivation. As a result, the cotton plant grows slowly and makes strong fibres from which beautiful and strong fabrics are made. Organic cotton is less harmful to humans, animals and the environment, making it a more environmentally friendly alternative to cotton. A responsible choice for propagating a promotional message.

Our organic cotton products, have a GOTS certification. GOTS guarantees the biological status of textiles from the harvest of the raw materials to the ecologically and socially responsible production and labelling. Everything is aimed at offering the consumer a reliable guarantee of the production process. GOTS certification takes in to consideration the processing, production, packaging, labelling, trade and distribution of all types of textiles consisting of at least 70 percent certified organic, natural fibres.

BIOBASED MATERIAL

FROM BIOBASED MATERIAL TO A SURPRISING PROMOTIONAL PRODUCT

cBiobased refers to materials that are made from renewable raw materials such as starch, sugar, cellulose, lactic acid, proteins or via micro-organisms. This also includes agricultural and organic waste such as the remains from a maize or sugar cane harvest. Elephant grass also forms the basis for products such as a notebook and flower pots. Explore our collection of biobased products and discover which environmentally friendly promotional items you can give with confidence.

SUGAR CANE WASTE

A BIO-BASED RAW MATERIAL FOR PROMOTIONAL GIFTS

Sugarcane is a crop that belongs to the grass family. After the harvest of sugar cane and the production of sugars, leaves and stems remain as a residual product. Instead of incinerating this waste, it now serves as a raw material for sustainable and environmentally friendly products. The raw material for this is called bio-plastic. Sugar cane is a fast-growing crop that removes CO₂ from the air during growth and is highly resistant to disease and drought. This means that fewer resources are needed to keep the plant alive. Choosing bio-based promotional products that contain sugar cane waste, means that you are choosing a green solution!

CELLULOSE

A BINDING AGENT

The emerging bio-based economy will see an increase in the use of raw materials from plant-based products. Another word for cellulose is wood pulp. Cellulose occurs in both cotton and wood and is used as a binding agent for paper, textiles and glue. It has an adhesive effect, is biodegradable and therefore environmentally friendly. Cellulose is also used in our promotional products.

BIO DISHCLOTH.

This organic dishcloth is made from 70% cellulose and 30% cotton waste. Cellulose is the most abundant organic polymer on Earth and is an integral part of the cell walls of plants and many algae species. Cellulose is mainly used for paper production. The cotton waste consists of cotton fibres that are too short to be used in the textile industry. This is an ideal and durable replacement for the everyday dishcloth, which will often use plastic in its production. The Bio Dishcloth can be washed using a temperature of up to 90 degrees and can be reused hundreds of times. When the dishcloth needs to be replaced, it can be thrown in to your organic waste bin. The product is biodegradable and completely dissolves within 6 to 8 weeks. Made in Sweden. Meas. 17.2 x 20 x 0.4 cm. 10 g.

CORN WASTE

AN ORGANICALLY RESPONSIBLE PROMOTION

Corn is a fast-growing crop. After harvesting the primary crop, maize, leaves and stems remain as a residual product. Historically, this waste product would have been incinerated. With new production methods, this waste is now used as a raw material for sustainable and environmentally friendly products. The starch from the fast-growing maize plant serves as the basis for bio-plastic, also known as PLA. It is 100% biodegradable, 100% industrially compostable and CO2 neutral. With products that basically consist of corn, you are investing in a strong eco-gift.

VODDE

WON'T CHANGE THE WORLD, IT'S THE PEOPLE WHO WEAR THEM THAT WILL...

The Dutch company Vodde, reuses discarded textiles to make new products. Vodde makes its yarn from cotton collected by local 'rag farmers' and from cutting waste from textile production in European countries where Vodde makes its own products. In addition, polyesters derived from PET bottles, nylon, fishing nets and other collected waste are also used.

These socks use a 100% circular economy manufacturing process. By wearing these socks you are contributing to a sustainable world with less pollution.

These socks are available made-to-measure and also with a customised design. Choose from nine standard yarn colours. All Vodde socks are supplied as standard in pairs with a label, or optionally in a box made from sustainable grass cardboard, which can be printed with your own logo. This way you can design your own socks that perfectly match any corporate identity. Developed and tested in the Netherlands, produced in the EU.
